THE CASE FOR LABOR

We see by the papers—and the Lexington Leader downtown in particular—that the American press has at last selected a scapegoat on which to blame America's slow start in the war effort. It has, as you might well expect, singled out that irrational inhabitant of the journalistic dog house: labor.

In the past few weeks, with the cloak of "national defense" hugged closely to them, the newspapers and certain anti-labor Congressmen (most of whom have opposed the 40-hour week all along and are just using the excuse of "defense strikes" to put through their long-standing plans) have renewed their offensive against the 40-hour week and "strikes in defense industries" which, they would have the readers believe, caused the fall of France and threaten America with the same thing.

The result of this nation-wide campaign, typified by the series of front-page editorials now appearing in the Lexington Leader, has been to create—intentionally or not—a serious misundstanding of the role of labor, to obscure other and more dangerous policies, and generally to build up a false impression in the minds of the public.

The impression is this: that labor has been consistently blocking the progress of war production and that the 40-hour week in particular threatens disaster to the nation. We believe that a consideration of the facts, which unfortunately are misstated or misinterpreted in much of the writing on the subject, would lead readers to a considerably different conclusion.

In the first place, labor has not, by any manner of means, used the confusion of the times to "seize the shining hour, to haggle over jurisdiction, to insist that not one inch of labor's gains" be sacrificed, whatever the emergency, to strike when and where they please for whatever trifling reason," as the Leader declared March 17. Instead of "insisting that not one inch be sacrificed" labor has consistently offered to give up its one weapon—the strike—if management would make corresponding sacrifices.

As early as a year and a half ago representatives for labor in the automobile industry offered to give up their right to strike if the industry would be converted to war production under joint government-management-labor control. Management spurned this offer and delayed converting the automobile industry for a crucial year.

Both William Green of AFL and Philip Min-ray of CIO (see dispatch from Washington, March 17) have yielded the right to strike for the duration, while management has yielded no corresponding power.

BY BOB CONWAY

The Leader makes a great-to-do about the strikes in defense plants, giving the impression that these are general and are backed by the national labor organizations. This is false. Of the strikes in war industries in February, not one was approved by the national organization (authority: Secretary of Labor Perkins, AP, Washington, March 14).

The Leader reported that 253,000 man-days were lost in February, and that defense strikes had increased 76 percent over January. Secretary Perkins in the dispatch quoted above places the figure at 17,830 man-days (205,170 less than the Leader's figure) and the strike increase at about 35 per cent.

The impression is given that because labor has a 40-hour week, that the workers only put in 40 hours, whereas, of course, they can work as much as they please. The real question about the 40-hour week is whether the big companies should pay time and a half for extra work, which extra payment has already been included in the prices which they are charging the government, and which would go into their own pockets if not to the workers.

Now, we are not approving of the strikes in defense plants, and in this we are supported by the opinion of the national labor organizations and patriotic workers all over the nation, but we certainly do disapprove of Big Business (which, if you remember the Truman and Arnold reports, has been far from square-shooting all along) taking advantage of the "defense effort" to throw out every advantage labor has gained.

We object to the policy of the American press—whether on purpose or not—in over-emphasizing the few bad moves made by renegade representatives of labor in an attempt to smear the entire movement.

We object to anyone making a scapegoat of the working man while turning his back on the frequent non-cooperation of the big corporations or their frequent misuses of their position to gather immense profits.

Labor has many times declared itself willing to accept any regulation from the government providing an equal amount was placed on management. We don't see how anyone could consider this any more than fair.

A Blow To UK Student Government

In passing an ex post facto ruling which would require University Faculty approval for all SGA amendments, although this is not included in the SGA constitution, the Faculty, we believe, has overstepped its jurisdiction and has taken an action which threatens the free working of student government for all time in the future.

According to a letter sent to SGA President Russell Patterson this week, the Faculty has, of its own accord, declared the recent SGA amendments must be approved by it before becoming effective. This action was taken despite the fact that the SGA constitution, which was passed and approved by the University Senate, requires no administration approval for amendments.

Thus the representatives of the University administration—an administration which, we realize, has changed since then, but which, we believe should respect the decisions of the earlier one—have chosen to impose from above a ruling which can only be considered a backward step for student self-government at the University. If the principle established in this action is continued, it can only be taken to mean that the University Faculty has no faith in the ability of university students to manage their own affairs, that the education which they are giving is not sufficient to teach them the very basic requirements of democratic behavior, and that self-government of University of Kentucky students is a farce.

No Matter What Happens, The Same Specter Will Be In The Background

Gigantic Crowd -- 12 People Saw Wildcats Off To NCAA

VICE OF THE PEOPLE By Roy STEINFORT

Mr. SuKy is a degenerate old man who jumps only when he hears the tinkle of a dime.

From the start we have had some doubts as to the real good this fellow performs. As the years have passed by, we have become more doubtful.

Mr. SuKy always manages to be around when there is a nickel or a dime to be made. But when there is work to be done, he's like the gypsies who silently steal away in the night.

Mr. SuKy is always present at the football games to gather up a few coins to add to his paunchee pockets. The same holds true for basketball where he reaps a modest fortune selling cokes for a dime—especially in a place like Alumni gym.

Wednesday night our Wildcats, champions of all the Southeastern conference, departed from Lexington for New Orleans where they will compete for the NCCA title, the highest stake that any Kentucky athletic team has ever bid for.

Babe Kimbrough in Thursday morning's Herald said:

"Without fanfare or formality, Coach Adolph Rupp and his Kentucky Wildcats left last night for New Orleans where Friday they will engage the University of Illinois quintet, champions of the Big Ten, in the opening round of the NCCA tournament.

Only a handful of fans—less than a dozen in fact—were at Union station to see the Kentuckians off. But that failed to dampen the spirits of the Bluegrass warriors as they went in quest of the national basketball crown."

You could hardly expect the players to be disappointed for the students failing to turn out for a rally.

After all, they have made numerous trips this season and only on occasions did a group of students turn out to welcome them home.

The same situation holds true for basketball and football. The students can't be blamed for not showing up for a rally unless they have a rally.

If they are returning home the victors, the players make fun about the band and students showing up for a big welcome home rally. If they lose, they make even more fun of it. It's something they don't expect. They have never had the privilege of becoming accustomed to fanfare.

Since we have started a complaint campaign, we might as well take one more swipe. The director of the "Best Band in Dixie", after the Wildcats won the SEC title, announced that the band couldn't play for a rally because "they had to attend the Sunday afternoon musicale."

Musicales are held every Sunday. Tournaments are held once a year. And damned seldom are champions crowned at Kentucky.

In The Kernel Quotable Quotes 25 Years Ago

A certain amount of confusion and embarrassment was felt on both sides when a young coed wandered up to the second floor of the campus YMCA building where she had heard a meeting of the women's glee club was to be held. The second floor being the men's dormitory section, there was a bit of scurrying around before the coed found out that the meeting was scheduled for the YMCA downtown.

We especially hate to see it come in reference to this particular ruling which actually has elected but a slight change in the present setup, which is no great breach in student morals, which does not endanger the reputation or standing of the University, which does not use any powers from the administration, and which is only an attempt to broaden the possibility of student participation in their own government.

Because of these things, and because we feel it was taken without justification, we, in the name of the students of the University, take this means of vigorously protesting the recent action of the University Faculty.

How To Snare The Last Chop

To enable defense workers and college students to forego the awkward and saddening experience of becoming accustomed to eating at boarding houses, I wish to submit my "Rules For Eating At Boarding Houses" or "Oh Well, I Wasn't Hungry Anyway."

Newcomers find it hard to cope with the forceful tactics of regular boarders and often find themselves unable to corral an adequate amount of calories.

Recognized as a connoisseur of those rare and exquisite culinary delicacies that daily grace the boarding house table d'hote—corn, beans, and potatoes; and a past master at the art of beating the other fellow to the draw on the last chop, I feel myself well qualified to discourse on the technicalities of this subject.

(1) Speed and aggressiveness are all-important in a boarding house. Remaining inactive for only a moment or taking your eye off a plate may put you on a voluntary diet. Remember the ancient adage, "He who hesitates finishes the meal at Jones Box Ball."

(2) Shyness and backwardness have no place in a boarding house. Don't be afraid to use the full force of your voice. When you command, "Hoist me the corn, Hank" be sure he knows exactly what you want.

(3) When eating soup, don't worry about making a little noise—anything to break the monotony.

(4) When someone else asks for bread, why

Colleges Push Defense Bond Sales

ON THE COLLEGE FRONT By JAMES H.

"Saying it with defense bonds" Government to fire a .50 caliber Nov. 24 in a recent "Arm Around American" festival and it is proposed that before long $100,000 worth of defense stamps may be sold as the information received here last week from the United States Treasury department is any indication.

Among the uses to which the $2,000 in defense bonds have been put are:

The senior class of the University of Wisconsin is planting early for its class reunion in 1952. To finance the get-together, almost $500 from the class treasury is going to be invested in United States defense savings bonds for ten years. This $487.50 loaned to the Treasury now will bring a profit of $162.50 when Uncle Sam redeems the bonds in 1952 while the government will be able to buy 25,000 .45 caliber cartridges with the class funds.

DEFENSE CORSAGES Uncle Sam's Treasury Department is playing florist to the fraternity men of Ohio Wesleyan University, who have decided to give corsages made of defense stamps instead of flowers for formal dances.

The ten cent red stamp—they've found—goes well with the girls' white, black, gray, and blue gowns; the green 25c stamp blends with beige, red, gray and blue gowns; the blue 50c stamp is fitting with the co-ed's yellow, white, or red formal; the $1.00 gray stamp corsage is suitable with a gown of any color; and the brown $5.00 stamp is the ideal decoration for green, white, and pink dresses.

All the treasury wishes now is that there were more green, white, and pink dresses.

NO BIG DINNER Michigan State College's Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity gave up a post-Thanksgiving dinner at its annual winter affair recently, and ate smorgasbord instead; and with the difference between the prices of the dinners, they bought $250 worth of defense bonds for the organization. That change in diet put enough money in the hands of the organization.

More than $15,000 in defense stamps were purchased through the efforts of the Bergen junior college stamp serving as the admission price. Stamp booklets continue filling in the evening's fun will result in the sale of 100,000 $1.00 bonds.

WOMEN WILL BE RADIO ENGINEERSPrevious Training Is Not Required

Women radio operators at the University radio studios will soon be a reality. F. G. Sulzer, director of radio activities at the University, announced yesterday that a class is being formed to train women to operate the controls in the studio.

The class, to be conducted by Mr. Sulzer, will be given practical experience in the work in the University studios. No previous training of any kind is necessary, it was stated. The course is especially designed for freshmen and sophomores.

Women interested in this class should see Mr. Sulzer in his office, third floor, McVey hall, at 2 p.m. today.

Dancer's Weight To Fix Admission To Slide Rule Shag

A "Slide Rule Shag" with admission prices based upon the weight of the dancers will be held from 8 to 10:30 p.m., March 21 in the Engineering building.

The dance is sponsored by Tau Beta Pi, engineering honorary. The admission scheme is as follows: girls under 100 pounds, 30 cents; from 100-125 pounds, 25 cents; over 125 pounds, 20 cents; all stages, 25 cents.

Fifty-two students are enrolled in the two classes which meet every Thursday afternoon and Saturday morning in the girls' gymnasium for instruction in the care of the sick wounded, and dying. Begun at the first of the semester, the class will continue through May with graduates receiving both the standard and advanced certificates in Red Cross first-aid from Mrs. Mary K. Kouns, instructor.

The first class of its kind to be instituted on the campus, it will furnish Uncle Sam with a half-hundred trained air-raid helpers and Red Cross workers each semester.

Members of the class start with lessons on compresses, instructions in how to stop bleeding wounds, or heat cuts and burns, and advance to the point where anything short of sudden death is duck soup.

CAMPUS GROUP STARTS KNITTINGCoeds Will Knit For War Sufferers

Knitting has been resumed as a part of the campus program of defense and aid to refugees and the homeless. It was announced yesterday by Miss Anne Morrow, YWCA resident secretary.

The American Friends Service commission which is sending clothing to unoccupied France, to refugees in England, and to the people of Ecuador who have been left homeless as a result of an earthquake, has sent a large supply of yarn. This is being distributed by Anita Gardner, president of the Campus club, and by the YWCA.

Knitters are asked to pay for their own wool, at 45 cents per hank. One hank will make baby sweater and pants. Instruction has been sent for knitting socks, stockings, sweaters for adults, and children, and other clothing.

Students who wish to learn to knit will be taught on request. In the women's residence halls, Epie Hughes, Pat Doyle, Sara Ewing, and Sue Ewing, are instructors and Mrs. Michael Miller, chairman of the Committee of Friends will come to the campus at any time to teach other women. Appointments with instructors can be made through the YW office, Miss Morrow stated.

The YW secretary said that the group would accept contributions of wool from those who haven't time to knit. The YWCA had been sponsoring a Red Cross knitting group until recently, when the organization began using their supply of wool for rush orders. University women could not fill rush orders, and consequently could not continue their Red Cross group, Miss Morrow said, in explaining the change of organizations.

They traveled by automobile to Antigua, spending a day visiting museums and historical places, and thence to Guatemala City on February 27.

After a short sightseeing trip, Mrs. Funkhouser continued on through Guatemala, while the doctor spent the week of February 27 to March 7 exploring in the Central American jungles.

On March 8 the Funkhousers arrived at Suchiate, Mexico, after a day auto trip in which they crossed the Mexican border. On March 9 they left for Mexico City on the National Railways of Mexico route stopping at Vera Cruz and Orizaba en route. They arrived at Mexico City on March 13th, where they made temporary headquarters.

EASTERN WAR IS PANEL TOPICInitiated ... Trimble Will Head Discussion Today

Chief topic of discussion at this week's "News of the Week" panel will be General MacArthur's transfer to Australia where he is now in charge of all the allied forces. The meeting is scheduled for 4 p.m. today in the Music room of the Union.

Dr. E. G. Trimble associate professor of political science, will head the panel which includes Mr. James W. Martin, professor of economics, Major General George Duncan, and Bill Penick.

Mr. Martin, head of the University Bureau of Business Research and former Commissioner of Revenue for the state of Kentucky, is recognized as one of the foremost tax authorities in the country.

General Duncan is a Lexington citizen who was in France during the last war.

Other subjects which Dr. Trimble expects to discuss are terms of peace when the war is over, and the fact

YWCA TO ELECT NEW OFFICERS NEXT TUESDAY

Murray, Graves Are Candidates For President

Officers of the YWCA will be chosen Tuesday in an election to be held from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. at the desk across from the Information desk of the Union building. All members of the organization are entitled to vote.

Nominees for president are Mildred Murray, arts and sciences junior from Lexington; and Jeannette Graves, arts and sciences junior from Lexington. Miss Murray is publicity chairman of the organization, and was the delegate to the National Student assembly at Miami university, Oxford, O. Miss Graves is vice-president and a member of the social committee.

Jeanne Lancaster, agriculture junior from Lebanon, and Jane Birk, arts and sciences from New Albany, Ind., are candidates for vice-president.

The students competing for secretary are Sarah Anne Hall, education junior from Frankfort, and Betty Simpson, arts and sciences sophomore from Lexington.

Nominees for treasurer are Carolyn Spier, arts and sciences sophomore from Lexington, and Dorothy Collins, agriculture junior from Lexington.

The outgoing officers of the YWCA are Betty South, president; Miss Graves, vice-president; Dorothy Vaughn, secretary; and Marion Bradford, treasurer.

The nominating committee was made up of the senior members of the YWCA cabinet who are Mary Olive Davis, Jean Ewers, Jessie Francis, Jo Andres, Dorothy Paul, Mary Frank Wiley, Alice Wootton, Eloise Palmore, Mary Garner, and Misses South and Vaughn.

A fee of $35 will be charged each person in addition to the University quarter tuition fee. Around 15 students usually go on the tour.

Prof. A. C. McFarlan, head of the geology department, will be in charge of the field trip, during which study of the stratigraphic section of the folded and faulted Appalachians will be emphasized. Also to be studied are the mineral deposits in the Blue Ridge mountains and adjoining portions of the Piedmont plateau.

David M. Young, curator of the University geology museum, will assist Prof. McFarlan on the trip.

Two courses will be offered on the field trip, an advanced course of three quarters of an hour which has as prerequisite two or more years of geology and an elementary course which has as a prerequisite only an elementary course in geology or physical geography.

Cedar Village
Restaurant*Used Stamp Group Reveals
Stamp Dye Is Not Salvaged

By DORIS ALDRIDGE

That dyes of cancelled stamps cannot be salvaged profitably, it was acknowledged by Mrs. Louis A. Gillet, New York chairman of the national used-stamp campaign, in a letter this week to Dean Sarah B. Holmes.

The drive for the collection of used stamps was begun on this campus the second week of February.

In the New York Times, February 15, Kent B. Stiles reported these facts as set down by the president of a chemical company who has worked with dyestuffs over twenty years:

"Five or six thousand stamps might weigh one pound."

Less than one-tenth of one percent of the total weight is ink.

Less than one-half the ink's weight is pigment.

To obtain one pound of pigment would take . . . probably 1,000,000 stamps.

The average dealer would be willing to pay more than $5.35, the highest currently quoted price for a pound of pigment, to take the chance of finding commemorative, special issue, and high denominational stamps, he said.

Directing the collection of stamps on the campus is Miss Margaret Durham, secretary of the head librarian. The New York directors state that this work has been going on since 1934, and that the Friends of Queen's Hospital has acknowledged receiving 2000 pounds of stamps in November and 1000 pounds in January.

He pointed out that the idea might have originated from World War I when stamps were sent to soldiers in hospitals for diversion.

Prof. George Brady of the English department who has been a collector for ten years and who has nineteen volumes of stamps, held the same views, adding that the fact the stamps were asked to be left on part of the envelope might mean they were being sold for their philatelic value to be used in "missionary mixtures."

A national dealer of stamps, Philip H. Ward, Jr., wrote in Meekel's Stamp News, "someone has been spoofing our able Washington com-

'Cats Meet Illini Tonight In National Tourney

Strong Illinois Team Favored Over Kentucky

The Kentucky Wildcats, ten strong, arrived in New Orleans at 7:30 o'clock last night and immediately went to the municipal gymnasium where they went through a final workout in preparation for tonight's battle with Illinois' Big Ten-champions in the National Collegiate Athletic Association tournament. The Cats and the Illini are scheduled to clash in the Tulane university field house at 9:30 p.m. in the second game of the first round.

In gaining a berth in the national tournament, the Wildcats received one of the greatest honors ever bestowed upon a Kentucky athletic team. Coach Adolph Rupp's cagers were invited to participate in the New Orleans tourney following their title clinching tilt in the Southeastern conference tournament held in Louisville three weeks ago.

The national tourney squad, composed of Waller White, Ermal Allen, Milton Ticeo, Lloyd Ramsey, Jim King, Mel Brewer, Marvin Akers, Captain Carl Staker, Ken England, Adrian Back, Trainer Frank Mann, and Student Manager Bill Evans left Lexington at 6 o'clock Wednesday night.

In the first game on tonight's tournament card, starting at eight o'clock, Penn State will meet Dartmouth. The winner of this game will fight it out with either Kent forwards will probably be two sophomore six-footers, Menke and Smiley. Six foot, five inch Mathiesen, the only starting senior, will be at center. At the guard posts will be Vance, who stands six three, and Andy Phillips, the six foot, two inch sensation who leads the Illinois offense.

The Illini have lost only three games in twenty starts this season and are ranked as the second best team in the nation. Kentucky is ranked twenty-fourth having won 22 and lost 5, including its tournament play and one post season tilt.

The Wildcats' starting lineup tonight is expected to be composed of Waller White and Ermal Allen forwards; Jim King, center; and Captain Carl Staker and Marvin Akers, guards. Coach Rupp indicated that Milt Ticeo, who has shown much improvement lately, would replace either White or Allen shortly after the game gets under way. Ken England, who has been troubled with a strained muscle in his side, will also probably see action before half time.

Probable lineups:

ucky or Illinois for the eastern division championship at 8 o'clock tomorrow night. The winner of the final game will meet the western division champion in Kansas City next week to determine the NCAA champion.

Coach Rupp stated Wednesday that he had very little information regarding the Illinois team. He does know that the starting five will probably include four sensational sophomores and one senior, all of whom tower above six feet. At the

KERNEL SPORTS

The Sporting Way

BY BOB ADAIR

We don't get it... Kentucky gets the biggest recognition in its basketball history—the national tournament—and nobody seems to give a hang... Wildcat fans seemed to think that the Southeastern tourney was really important and they were all interested in the outcome of every game, several hundred students and alumni journeying to Louisville... Now the Cats gain even more prominence and no one, other than the trainer and the student manager, accompanies the team to New Orleans.

Of course we can't expect students to take time off from class-work to make an expensive trip, but it does seem that some representative of the student body or the student paper should be present when the team engages in its most important contest of the year.

OUR PET PEEVE IS ALL ALONE

We weren't especially peeved when we, personally, didn't get to make the trip... but we do think some one should have been sent along... Coach Rupp and his "poor little boys" will be "all alone in the big city" with no shoulder to cry on if Illinois or one of the other outfits licks the Cats... We wish to express our deepest appreciation to the Maestro for the time and trouble he spent in his vain attempt to obtain permission for us to accompany the team... He even offered to let us share the team's pullman if the paper would put up the gravy... If he had his way, he would take every student in school.

Wednesday Coach Rupp pointed out to us (and also to the sports editor of a down-town paper, whose bosses aren't sending him either) the advantages of such a trip to a sports writer... He pointed out that a writer would meet some of the biggest coaches and writers in the business, and would probably get enough column material from the bull sessions, etc., which go with such an event, to last a month... "It would be wonderful experience for any writer, especially for one just starting out," said Rupp.

THE NO BLAME DEPARTMENT

We don't blame the Kernel's editor... He was all for sending us... This newspaper is supposed to be student owned and operated, but when an occasion such as the national tournament arises, we learn that the "dough-re-me" angle is handled by the faculty.

Again we emphasize that our squawk does not lie in the fact that WE weren't allowed to go, but in the principle of the thing... We'll wager that any other university in the nation would be well represented if their cage team was in the national spotlight.

Coach Rupp's magnificent gesture only helps to show what we have always said... He is not only one of the best coaches in the country but he is also a fine friend and a gentleman, always willing to help anyone he can... What other college coach would go out of his way to help the sports editor of the school paper?

Champion Team Waits For Ball Play To Begin

The SAEs did not win the university championship, it was announced last night. A ruling by the Intramural department declared that the Unknowns had beaten the fraternity team for the championship.

When the score was tied up at the end of the game Tuesday night, the two teams went into an overtime period and the Unknowns scored a free throw. Game officials ruled that two points must be scored to win in an overtime and in the second overtime the SAEs scored the field goal, however, investigation proved that the officials were in error and the title was given to the Unknowns.

The SAEs can sit back and rest on their laurels this week because when the Intramural basketball season closed last week they had gained the championship of the A, B, and C leagues and also the University with the close of basketball, the Intramural activities will slow down until the softball season.

C. W. Hacksmith has announced that all entries for softball will not be accepted later than Thursday, March 26.

Sigma Nu, fraternity champions last year, will be somewhat weakened this season due to the loss of Marvin Akers, ace hurler, who will be flinging for the varsity baseball team after the N. C. A. A. tournament. However, added strength
